A CLEAN MAN.

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and make it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It doesn't make the flabby fat of corpulence, but the firm flesh of health.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create craving for injurious stimulants.

Mr. John L. Coughenour, of Glen Savage, Somerset Co., Pa., writes: "My appetite was unusually poor, and I was as weak and nervous as though I had been starved for months. My heart kept throbbing continually and I was short of breath. Finally I wrote to you for advice and you informed me that I had indigestion and a torpid liver. I did not think your 'Golden Medical Discovery' from you and began its use. After using three bottles I began to improve slowly and soon went to work, and I have been working ever since."

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe.

BUSY INSECT EATERS.

What One Day's Hunting Brought to a Brood of Red Wagtails.

A close student of bird life writes: "Observation of several species of insectivorous birds has shown that the parent birds will, when their family is growing up, make between them in the neighborhood of 500 visits to the nest in the course of a day, carrying on each occasion a whole beak load of gnats or spiders or larvae. For the birds which feed on gnats or other small life generally take to their youngest not single insects, but a whole collection at a time. On one occasion I spent an hour in taking the record of a pied wagtail which had its brood of newly fledged young ones in an old disused punt that had settled down at its moorings into the mud at the side of the pond. During the hour the male bird alone was looking after the family the female amused herself by running about on the bank catching insects for her own consumption and

Under American rule, the Panama railroad has been acquired the chronic American railroad trouble; it has more business than it can handle.

Curious, but True.

Although difficult to believe, it is nevertheless true that the death of two half sisters, the daughters of the same father, occurred 170 years apart. The grandfather of the British minister, Charles James Fox, Sir Stephen Fox, married in 1654 and had a daughter born to him in 1655 who died in the course of the same year. He had several other children who grew up and married, but all of them died before the father and without issue. Sir Stephen, not wishing his large fortune to fall into the hands of distant relatives, married again at a very advanced age, and his youngest daughter was born in 1727. She reached the age of ninety-eight years and died in 1825—that is 170 years after the death of her oldest sister.

A good many people are like true birds in a nest. When you praise them they lie still with their mouths wide open for more.

Engines are very much like people. The switch engine makes more fuss around the depot than the engines on the through trains. The cheaper the person, the more trouble he causes.—Atchison Globe.

Beauty and the Beast.

A well-known southern churchman was recently visiting New York, accompanied by his wife, who is as beautiful as her life mate is homely. They were walking down Broadway one sunny afternoon, and the pair attracted much attention. One of two young "sports," evidently thinking to attract the favorable attention of the churchman's wife, in an audible aside remarked that it was another case of "the beauty and the beast." Quick as a wink the husband turned and, as he swung his right to the speaker's jaw, scoring a knockout, said, "I am a man of peace, but I never allow any one to call my wife a beast."—New York Tribune.

Catherine Parr.

Catherine Parr, the sixth wife of the much married Henry VIII., owed more to her intellect than to her personal charms. She was not good looking, but had a pleasant face and a world of tact. So skillfully did she manage her troublesome husband as actually to turn him against some of the most trusted of his own officials. Once an order was made out for her arrest on a charge of heresy, but she got news of the matter and so cleverly flattered and soothed Henry as to effect a complete reconciliation, and when the officers came to serve the order he drove them out with curses and threats.

RATE LEGISLATION DISCUSSED

United States Senator Foraker thus discusses rate legislation in an article written by him for the New York Herald:

"The essential principle of many of the bills that have been introduced in Congress is the proposition to confer upon the Interstate Commerce Commission authority when, after full hearing, a rate has been found to be unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, to determine what a reasonable and just rate and to issue an order substituting that rate for the one condemned, the order of the Commission to become effective practically at once.

"Each one of these bills proposes to give to the United States courts a more or less restricted power to review an order of the Commission and to pass upon its lawfulness. Some of the bills propose to authorize the Commission to make both maximum and minimum rates, and others would provide for the making of maximum rates only. Such legislation is not only objectionable on the ground that it would confer upon an administrative bureau practically automatic and unrestrained power over the transportation interests and the commerce of the country, but it is also objectionable on the ground of its doubtful constitutionality.

"It is a proposition to require an administrative body to exercise the purely judicial function of passing on the question as to whether a challenged rate is reasonable or legal and then require this same body to exercise the legislative function of prescribing a future rate. There is so much doubt as to the constitutionality of such a commingling of legislative, executive and judicial functions as these bills propose that if any one of them should become a law its enactment would certainly be followed by years of legislation, expensive and expending alike to shippers and to carriers, and there would be serious danger that in the end the Supreme Court of the United States would hold the entire act to be unconstitutional and void."

A GOOD SHERIFF.

The trumped up charges of graft in the sheriff's office in San Francisco during the administration of Sheriff Curtis have come to naught after a thorough investigation by the grand jury. This is an honest man and would not permit graft in his office if he were aware of it. San Francisco has produced but few men who give such general satisfaction as an officer as Mr. Curtis. While in office he employed nearly 200 men and many of them were entrusted with important duties. It could not be expected that he could not supervise all their work in person and while a few trifling articles were missed from the branch, it would be unjust to place the blame on the sheriff. It is safe to say that no man ever left San Francisco with a better record than Mr. Curtis. It would be well for the metropolis if it had a few more men like Mr. Curtis to fill office.

NEW CENTRAL THEATRE

Plays may come and plays may go but minstrelsy, like Tennyson's Brook, is destined to go on forever, a fact that is evidently fully appreciated by the management of the Central Theatre, as Mahara Bros. Big Minstrel Carnival, composed of over forty genuine negro artists, has been engaged to appear at this popular house every afternoon and evening of next week, beginning with Monday Matinee at 2:15. It is safe to say that not one of the current season's attractions will claim more attention from the amusements loving public of San Francisco than this decided novelty, and Manager Ernest Howell is to be on the program, and it would take too long to describe all the good things which await lovers of real old-fashioned minstrel fun in this mammoth entertainment. It is enough to say that Gordon C. Collins and Tim Owsley are the principal fun makers; Odessa Crosby is the sweetest tenor; Louise Louston, prima donna soprano; Park and Davis, skete artists; LaBelle Sisters, the society fashion plates; the Johnsons, acrobats; Morgan Prince, vocalist; J. A. English, hoop controller; the four Dudleys, song and dance artists, and a score of others are some of the features. A most beautiful electric, elevated first part, ten big vaudeville acts in the olio, and all to conclude with a one act ragtime operetta, "The Dusky Maidens," will make up one of the most entertaining minstrel bills ever presented in this city. A big street parade will be given every day at noon, by the entire company, and two open air concerts every day, by the Premium Colored Brass Band, afternoon and evening, in front of the theater, absolutely free of charge. Prices for this engagement will remain the same: 15, 25, and 50 cents at night and 10, 15 and 25 cents at the daily matinees.

The following week the popular vaudeville act, Mr. Landers' "Jack," Stevens will appear as "Monte Cristo," in the great drama of that name.

Thank Them.

The people worshipping at the Baptist church wish publicly to thank the Virginia Lumber Co. for their gift of lumber for a new sidewalk in front of the church. The gift came in a very hearty manner and the sidewalk is very greatly appreciated.

An Early Betrothal.

In the early days of California the daughters of the Lugos were sought in marriage by the best families of the state. It was a boast that they were even courted in the cradle, as when the young officer Colonel Ignacio Vallejo, being in San Luis Obispo on the occasion of the birth of a daughter to the Lugos, asked her father for the hand of the day old baby, provided when the time came to fulfill the contract the senorita should be willing. This seemingly absurd betrothal took place. The child grew up to be an intelligent as well as attractive young woman, married her betrothed and became the mother of many children, among them Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo.

Binding a Bargain.

In the book of Ruth a shoe is mentioned as being thimble over to ratify a bargain, and the custom in a sense seems to have been repeated later, for in the year 1902 certain bishops were put into possession of their sees by receiving a glove. These may have been richly jeweled gloves, for such formed part of the episcopal habit, and when some abbots thought fit to array themselves in similar hand covering peculiar only to bishops they were forbidden their use by the council.

There is nothing so true that the change of error have not warped it—Tupper.

A. D. Walsh Guarantees Hyomei to Cure Catarrh or it Costs Nothing.

In view of the prevalence of catarrhal troubles at this season of the year, I want to tell our readers that I never sold anything that gave more satisfaction than Hyomei, when used in catarrhal troubles. You get immediate relief from the treatment, and consistent use will prove to every sufferer, as it has to many of our customers, the virtue of this preparation. Personally I am interested in Hyomei, for it is made and sold on honor, and I do not want your money unless you are benefited and satisfied.

There is no stomach dosing in connection with Hyomei. It is a thoroughly local treatment for a local disease, and its soothing, healing medication goes direct to the spot where it is needed.

The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomei, and the price is only $1 while additional bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

I positively guarantee a cure when Hyomei is used in accordance with directions, or I will refund your money. This certainly shows my faith and belief in the virtues of Hyomei.

Yours very truly, A. D. WALSH.

THE MAJESTIC.

Never in the history of theatricals in San Francisco has an artist captivated our amusement lovers as has the magnetic little Australian, Nellie Stewart in the beautiful play, Sweet Nell of Old Drury, which has been drawing crowded houses at the Majestic Theater for the past two weeks and which is about to enter its third week.

A more perfectly equipped artist one cannot imagine for Miss Stewart possesses wonderful beauty, remarkable histrionic talent, a magnetic personality, a sweet voice and musical ability of high order.

The supporting company's one of the most evenly balanced and uniformly excellent that we have ever had visit this city and the entire production especially the music, scenery and stage effects one of those artistic achievements worthy of any playhouse in the world.

A great attraction for the ladies are the elegant creations of the costumier and the hats worn by Miss Stewart. Exclamations of wonder and admiration are heard in all parts of the house each time she appears in a change of gown. The rest of the cast are all magnificently and correctly attired. Manager Musgrove has indeed brought us a show worthy of all praise and the unanimity of the critics as to the merits of the performance is surprising for all agree that nothing to compare to it has been here for years.

During the engagement there will be the usual Sunday night performances and a special "Pop" matinee on Thursday at which the prices will range from $1.00 for the best seats down to 25 cents. There will be usual Saturday matinees and seats for the last two weeks of this engagement are now on sale at the box office.

AN OLD OFFENDER CAUGHT.

Was Quietly Strolling Into Town at 2 O'clock in the Morning.

Nightwatchman J. H. Coleman and Jailor Peter Kelly Frustrated a Big Robbery.

Last Saturday, about 2 o'clock in the morning Jailor Peter Kelly and Night Watchman J. H. Coleman, who were watching the railroad track into town from the direction of San Jose, saw a man entering town from the south. He wore a canvass coat and had a sack thrown over his shoulder. Upon being halted he seemed to hesitate and reached his hand into his pocket, but was immediately covered by the weapons of the two officers and ordered to throw up his hands. Upon being searched he was found to be armed with large 44-caliber Colt and a small Derringer. The canvass coat was lined with numerous pockets and from them were taken the largest and most complete set of burglar tools ever seen by the officers here embracing lock picks, skeleton keys, brace and bits of various sizes, two jimmies with handles, wrenches, wire nippers, saws, fuse caps, a can of blasting powder, and other incidentals necessary for safe cracking. The prisoner says he is 60 years old, but will tell nothing further about himself. He looks his age, his heavy head of hair and beard being very gray. The officers are satisfied that upon his identification he will prove to be an old offender.

Chief of Police Carroll, of San Jose, declared Monday that the man was in all probability John Woods, the veteran safe cracker who was arrested two years ago.

Woods was arrested at Mountain View on April 11, 1904, on suspicion of Deputy Sheriff Arthur Schneider, while he was in the act of purchasing a small quantity of black powder and a few feet of the smallest size fuse. He was wearing at the time a canvass coat, resembling a hunting coat in the number of its pockets, but the latter had been planned and made for the carrying of a most elaborate safe-cracking outfit—the finest and most complete ever seen in this county, so distributed that it would attract no attention. The outfit included a splendid ratchet, with attachments for multiplying power, and a remarkably ingenious contrivance for fastening the apparatus firmly to a safe knob; there was an assortment of finely tempered and very sharp drills; combination jimmies with a leverage of upwards of forty inches, and smaller tools in variety, the whole weighing from thirty to forty pounds.

Woods admitted at the time that he had served five years in the State prisons of California, but he insisted that he was through with all lines of criminal work. He adjusted his own improved paraphernalia to a rear office at the county jail and gave a good illustration to the attaches of how to crack a safe. Woods was taken before a local justice of the peace court, and he was sentenced to six months in the county jail for carrying burglar's tools.

Woods claimed that his arrangement of ratchets and his appliances for attaching them to safes were of his own invention, and said that he had intended to patent them, but he had determined that he would make no further use of time. He did not believe that he would receive a very stiff sentence for carrying burglar's tools, as he insisted that he had never used them since his discharge from Folsom prison.

Woods is a very decent-looking old man, with silver hair and beard, and gives his age as 62 years. He talks intelligently, is rather refined in his manner and address, and would never be suspected of being a desperado, though included in his outfit was a "murderous-looking improved Colt" revolver of 45 caliber.

He said that he served in the Union army from '62 to '65, in the Thirty-fourth Massachusetts Infantry, U. S. V., and that he was honorably discharged. He said that he came to California at the close of the war and that he has lived in this State ever since, except a few months spent at Vancouver, Washington, where he went after his discharge from Folsom, and that he found employment at army barracks there as a tailor for some months. As to his more recent movements he declined to talk. He said he has no family and no friend in the world. He admitted that Woods is simply one of several aliases.

Woods' last conviction was in Eldorado county, where he was sentenced April 22, 1891, to 20 years in State's prison at Folsom for burglary in the first degree and prior conviction. Woods appeared before Judge Hanon on Wednesday and pleaded guilty to the charge of having burglar's tools in his possession. He was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail. The sentence was the full extent of the law.

A BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY.

The Winter Months with Italian Skies Allures the Nature Lover.

The coast country, between Los Angeles and San Francisco, is alluring to the nature-lover at all seasons, and especially during the winter months, when all the eastern country is snow covered. The roads are well shaded, and offer a good part of the journey of between five and six hundred miles. The broad Pacific is in sight much of the way; there are oak dotted fields, rugged hillsides, walnut and orange groves; fruit and seed farms, hot springs, alluring streams, and several restful stopping places. No wonder the journey is fast becoming a popular one for automobile tourists. Not only is this Camino Real trip—for the roads follow closely the trails made by the Franciscan fathers over a century ago in going from mission to mission—made by enthusiastic Californians, but every winter many eastern tourists, who are spending the season at various California resorts to enjoy the mild climate, speed their machines over this coast route and are made happy. The accompanying map shows the topographical features of the road between San Francisco and Los Angeles, and it is to be recommended to automobilists as trustworthy in every respect. The journey is one to be long remembered.

THE SHORE LINE LIMITED.

The Great Lure of Visitors Has Caused This Train to Be Put on the Road.

The Southern Pacific has announced that the shore line limited will be inaugurated March 1 between Los Angeles and San Francisco, leaving the southern city at 9 a. m. and arriving at the metropolis at 10:30 p. m. The same schedule as that prevailing on the south-bound will be observed and six stops will be made viz: Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Paso Robles, Castorville, Pajaro and San Jose. There will be an entirely new equipment. A baggage car, diner, three chair cars will be included. The last car will be recessed observation car. Two parlor cars will run through Los Angeles to San Francisco one from Los Angeles to Del Monte and another from Del Monte to San Francisco.

The same arrangement will prevail on the south bound train. The service will continue through the months of March, April, May, and longer if justified.

The schedule provides for convenient stop over privileges and resumption of trip at principal coast line resorts. This train will be additional to the coarser which will make a few more stops to take care of increasing local travel.

E. E. Schillingsburg, district freight and passenger agent at San Jose, states that this action is due to the great influx of visitors resulting from the $100,000 advertising campaign of the railroad company, and the growing circulation in the East of the Sunset Magazine as well as the circulation of the new book entitled "The Road of a Thousand Wonders." The new train, it is said, will be the finest in the west and will cut the time for the trip one hour.
